

PMBA Board of Directors Election

The election window is now open for the four board seats that expire this year. Two of the four director positions are currently running for second terms. While there are only four nominations for four open positions, a vote is still required by the membership.

Primary contacts with station voting privileges were sent an email containing the ballot link on Monday, May 10. If you are the primary contact but did not receive the email, please contact info@pmbaonline.org.

New FCC Rules Spare Pubcasters from Foreign Sponsorship Disclosures

Current

Public broadcasters are welcoming the FCC's decision to rein in new rules governing foreign sponsorship of radio and TV broadcasts, which system leaders feared could be too burdensome for producers and stations.

In a Report and Order released April 22, the FCC specified that its requirements for identifying program sponsorship by foreign governments will apply only to broadcasters that lease airtime to governmental entities. That largely excludes public broadcasters. Read more.

How to Stop Perpetuating 'Ghosting' Culture

SHRM

The practice of "ghosting"—severing all communication with someone without any explanation or warning—has become common during job interviews. It happens on both ends of the relationship; sometimes the prospective employer ghosts the job candidate, while other times the candidate pulls a disappearing act. While it's typically done to avoid confrontation, it can lead to bigger problems. Read more.
