

How Music Stations Have Grappled with Artists Accused of Misconduct

Current

Public radio music programmers emerged from a panel discussion with more questions than answers about whether musicians accused of misconduct should continue to appear on station playlists.

During the session at the annual Non-Commvention, which focuses on public radio's Triple A-format stations, programmers explained their thinking behind the removal of some artists from their playlists. One artist they found themselves reconsidering recently was Ryan Adams, the popular rock musician who was the focus of a February New York Times story detailing accusations of abuse and harassment. Read more

A TERRIFIC OPPORTUNITY TO WORK FOR ONE OF THE BEST PUBLIC MEDIA COMPANIES!

American Public Television (APT) has a job opening for Vice President Finance and Administration.
APT is the leading syndicator of content to U.S. public television stations.
For more information and to apply: click here or go to <https://bit.ly/2VIYcjV>

Watercooler Conversation: Recruiting Matters!

Wednesday, June 19, 2019, 3:00-4:00 pm ET

PMBA Members-Only Event

Recruiting qualified candidates for public radio and television can be challenging. From navigating the current job market to sourcing and hiring qualified, diverse candidates, public radio and television stations are competing with commercial counterparts and private companies that can offer higher salaries and recruit more aggressively. What are your challenges? What issues do you struggle with? Join Susannah Arnim, HR specialist from Idaho Public Television; Victoria Hagele, HR and business manager from Capital Public Radio; and Carol Sorber, director of professional development from PBS, for an open and frank conversation about recruiting matters. Register Now

Here We Go Again: The Cyclical Nature of Board Behavior

Nonprofit Quarterly

I was talking with an executive the other day about the problems she was having with her board, when she declared, “I’ve been here a long time and I’ve seen all this behavior before. I’m just so tired of it!” At that moment, I remembered an article by Miriam Wood, titled, “Is Governing Board Behavior Cyclical?”

While digging out the article to reread it, I thought about all the changes that have occurred since the article was first published in 1992. Since then, the nonprofit sector has seen exponential growth, increased professionalism, and an explosion in academic research, with a concomitant number of undergraduate and graduate degrees awarded in the field. Read more

FCC Repack In-Person Training

Wednesday, June 5, 9:30 am

WMHT Educational Telecommunications will be hosting an in-person training on FCC Repack presented by Julie A. Raskin, vice president finance and administration.

Learning Objectives

- Understand how to put together Engineering Internal Labor reimbursement packages for the FCC.
- Adjust the Form 399 to accommodate this additional item.
- Review WMHT’s favorite rejection letters from the FCC.
- Assemble the actual packages for input in the FCC 399.

Schedule

9:30 am - 10:00 am

Welcome to WMHT and tour of the station

10:00 am - 2:30 pm

Understand, learn, and assemble the internal labor packages.

Lunch will be provided.

Equipment Required

Laptop, Adobe Pro, payroll registers, timesheets, employees’ calendars with description of their work.

Please email Julie Raskin if you would like to attend—space is limited.

Industry Job Listings

Provided as a PMBA member service, the industry job listings page includes current industry job openings. New listings are being added regularly, so check out the page for the latest job openings.

If you would like to list a job opening, please email PMBA a link to the job posting, including closing date.

The Top 10 HR and Talent LinkedIn Groups

Talent Management Solutions Review

LinkedIn features more than 260 million monthly active users and remains one of the best places to share content on the web. More than 60 million of those users are senior level influencers and 40 million are in decision-making positions. If you are a data and analytics professional and want to connect, share ideas, and network with some of the brightest minds in the field, LinkedIn is a great resource.

If you are a business person who works in the talent management software market or you're an HR professional, or you're just looking for additional insights into what experts in the space are talking about, LinkedIn Discussion Groups are a great place to start. As a result, we've compiled a list of the top 10 forums to join to discover new insights and best practices and learn which software tools the experts are using in their daily operations. Read more

Share Your Company News

We'd like to share your company news with PMBA's members. If you have a story you'd like to share, please send it to info@pmbaonline.org.

Connect With PMBA Online

Follow PMBA on social media for the latest association and industry news. Just click the icons below to go to PMBA's newsfeeds and follow us.

